Particulars of the Fearful Steamboat Disaster

ST LOUIS Oct 28—Mr Phillips a planter of Shreveport has arrived from the wreck of the Stonewall and furnishes the following brief particulars of the terrible disaster. The boat caught fire about half past six o'clock on Wednesday evening about 40 miles above Cairo in the Mississippi river from a candle which a deck passenger had near some hay while playing cards. The steamer was run aground on a bar the pilot supposing the passengers could wade ashore. Unfortunately at the end of the bar was a slough where a large number were drowned. The boat was only run upon the bar about two feet and the shallowest water was about the bow five or six feet deep. There was so much hay on board that the boat burned like tinder. The Belle of Memphis came up at half past nine and rendered all the assistance possible. Out of 252 passengers and crew only 40 are known to have been saved. When last seen Captain Scott was floating down stream on a log. The people at Neely's saw the light and hastened to assist. One man rescued sixteen persons with a skiff. Had it not been for their help all would have been lost.

A gentleman from Paducah, Ky., swam ashore with a lady and at her entreaty returned to save a child. In swimming ashore he was grasped by a drowning man and would have himself been drowned had he not shook him off. One man was taken from the wreck so badly burned that he died as soon as he reached the shore.

There were 39 cabin passengers, 80 of the crew and quite a number of ladies on board all of whom were probably lost except one. The pilot and carpenter were the only ones of the crew who were saved.

The Stonewall was owned by Capt John Shaw and Dennis Long. She was valued at $40 000 and insured for $30 000. Seventy cattle horses and mules aboard were burned.

The Patrie to day asserts that a wide spread conspiracy has been discovered in the Turkish Province of Allioma and Herronga, in connection with a revolt in Corrona in the Austrian Province of Dalmatia. Several arrests of persons implicated had been made by the authorities and a large amount of arms and ammunition seized. It is reported that the Governments of Austria and Turkey have come to an understanding whereby they will act jointly in suppressing the insurrection.

LONDON Oct. 28—The Dublin Amnesty Association at a business meeting last evening adopted unanimously resolutions expressive of regret at Gladstone's refusal to release the Fenian prisoners and declaring their determination to continue the agitation to establish local associations throughout the country.

The Post commenting on the action of Grant in regard to gold speculations says the habits of the life of President Grant are a guarantee that he will be sure to do his duty impartially to all. His character as a soldier will protect him from the temptation to which those who make politics a trade frequently yield. His judgement as a statesman remains to be tested. Thus far he gives evidence of statesmanlike prudence and good temper. A feature of the Alabama negotiation led him wisely to postpone the re-opening of the subject. The course he has pursued in respect to Cuba proves that however anxious for aggrandizement of the Union he is resolved to observe faithfully the duties prescribed by international law.

The Times to day in an article on the claims for Fenian amnesty says: Many Governments as well as that of England formerly regarded rebellion as transcending all other crimes as one to be punished beyond them all. When it is demonstrated that the Fenians have harder work, worse food and harsher treatment than other convicts it will be time to accuse Gladstone of being less sensitive of justice when practiced on his fellow countrymen than when inflicted on foreigners. While the Government refused to act towards the rebellion as if it were simply a virtue misdirected, Gladstone can afford to treat with indifference the imputation that he has turned renegade from his generous principles of 1860.

Besides its fine silver mines it is probably the richest in copper of any mine in this State.

SATURDAY MORNING OCTOBER 30 1869

A Sage of the Sagebrush Region

Up in Idaho there is a paper called the Statesman. It is or professes to be a Republican paper. We are careful to state these facts with distinctness for the reason that there are few people who are aware of them. This great Statesman is essaying to teach the Republican party a different policy in relation to the public debt from that which it is now pursuing. It has of late been growing pathetic over the millions of taxes wrung from the toiling masses, and wants an abatement of taxation and an abandonment of the policy of paying the debt. True it argues that the debt should be paid sometime but it don't want the country to make an effort to reduce it now. It is not probable that these opinions will have a very powerful effect on the national mind and we notice them only because the sagebrush organ attempts to take the OREGONIAN to task for insisting that if we are to continue paying the debt at the present rate of $100 000 000 a year we cannot get on with much less revenue than now and that taxation therefore cannot at present be greatly reduced. In an article published some days ago we were showing that free trade and a diminution of revenue would embarrass the Treasury and open the way to repudiation and to this the financial reformer in Idaho responds:

> It is this constant putting of the alternative of higher taxes against repudiation that has given the Democracy such an advantage in all the late campaigns. Other papers throughout the country are beginning to discover the error of this but the OREGONIAN seems unaccountably slow to perceive it. England does not attempt to pay off her public debt, or pretend that she ever will do so yet no one supposes that she is going to repudiate. On the contrary English consols are worth 20 per cent more in the market than American bonds though they bear only half the interest. Then this struggle to pay off a hundred millions per year is not necessary to our credit, and is as we insist, a heavy and useless burden that must be relaxed. The party or the administration that undertakes to carry it will be crushed.

It is not true that the Democrats had an "advantage" in the late elections. The Republicans in all the States have taken this year to settle sundry quarrels and adjust old scores, and so far as elections have been held they have done this and retained control at the same time. The one overwhelming and unanswerable argument with which they met and foiled the opposition was the rapid reduction of the debt under the wise and economical administration of President Grant. No idea is so popular in this country as that of steadily paying the debt. The Republicans have maintained their ground this year simply from the fact that they have been able to show that under their management the debt is in process of rapid extinction. This is the one fact which has been dwelt on by Republican orators and journals continually. They have rested their cause upon it, and upon it they have won. In 1868 the most difficult thing they had to meet was the fact that during Johnson's last year the debt was increased by many millions. They could answer this only by promising a better showing after Grant's administration should begin. The truth is here: The people knowing that the debt must be paid are willing to submit to reasonable taxation to accomplish that object. All they ask is the knowledge that the taxes are faithfully collected and honestly applied to the purpose intended. The [illegible] showing since March convinces them that affairs are now going on in about the right manner, hence they are satisfied and pronounce in favor of the policy of the Republican party. They commend President Grant for doing what they elected him to do. The fact that England never expects to pay her public debt furnishes no reason why we should follow such an example. Nor do the American people intend to follow it.

"The New Nigger."

Gov. Haight, of California, who went to Ohio to speak in behalf of Pendleton, was expected to annihilate "Radicalism" in that great State by haranguing on the "Chinese question." It was a subject which he claimed to have special acquaintance with, and the people of Ohio were to listen to a man who had seen and was conversant with every phase of this new danger. He had studied it carefully, and had been over the whole subject, from inciting a mob to stone the "rat-eating heathen" before an election, to banqueting and feasting with the same "rat-eating heathen" after the election was over. Therefore it was supposed that he was just the man to open the eyes of the people of Ohio. Well, he got to Columbus and made a speech which the Journal of that city thus speaks of, under the heading, "The New Nigger."

> There was a [illegible] person named Haight who squeaked out a two hour harangue in a thin whining, nasal voice at the Opera House Friday night, [illegible] editor of the Statesman out of the house with his interminable dullness. He moved up and down the platform like an exhaust pump with two handles, working his arms up and down and pumping the vitality out of his audience. Most of the assembly left during the first hour, and the ushers had to wake up all who were not dead at the close of the harangue.
> This [illegible] with the startling proposition that San Francisco is a great way from Columbus. (There is comfort in that—if Haight would only stay there.) He then gave a short dissertation on State Rights, probably the remains of a school composition of his younger days.
>
> But the burden of his sing song was the dreadful dangers to be apprehended by the Caucasian race from Chinese or Mongolian immigration. It occurs to us as a curious thing that this irrepressible, irresistible overturning race of ours—this Anglo Saxon people—is singularly liable to danger from competing with inferior races. * * * Haight is so insufferably tedious and dull that it is next to impossible to hear him through and we may safely leave him to serve as his own antidote.

A Strong Reaction

The reactionary feeling in England against free trade, which we have occasionally alluded to of late, is spreading far and wide among manufacturers and operatives in that country. "Protection" is becoming a watchword with these classes there and the growing discontent with the existing commercial policy is daily becoming more evident. As a consequence of this policy, some fifty thousand fewer operatives are employed in the single county of Lancashire than were at work eight years ago. Here we have a practical example of the working of free trade principles when applied even on a very limited scale. Wherever and whenever they have been put to the test of practice, they have signally failed to come up to the sounding phrase of the manifesto. The interests and rights of labor have invariably suffered while even capital has finally become a prey to the surroundings which soon grow up as inseparable adjuncts to free trade. Right in the face of this universal experience, America is asked to repeat England's blunder and that, too, at the very time when the latter country is clamoring for a return to protection as the only safe anchorage for her industries, and the only sufficient shelter for her operatives.

In General

A Nashville dispatch dated [illegible] instant thus tells the story of the Senatorial election in Tennessee. The opposition concentrated on Henry Cooper to-day and elected him United States Senator on the first ballot. The vote was—Cooper 55, Johnson 51. Cooper is a gentleman of fine ability and has been a consistent Union man all the time.

It is announced that Col. Kelly is about to join Chapman and Thayer [illegible] the brotherhood [illegible] Portland. At all events Kelly is going to [illegible] an address to the brotherhood (Chapman, Thayer and Gardner) [illegible]. We suggest a new name for this association. Let its members after [illegible] be known as Knights of the Horny Hand.

The New York Sun, a [illegible] Republican paper, is giving the Democracy great comfort by its unsparing abuse of President Grant. The editor of the Sun was an applicant for office. Failing to get what he demanded he opened his batteries of vituperation on the President and has kept up the attack ever since. He admitted in a recent number of his paper that he could have been quieted with an office, and said the President was a great fool not to attach leading editors to him in this way! We notice that the Herald transfers an editorial on the President from the Sun to its own editorial columns. Articles from such a source are very fit to appear in the Herald.

An Eastern paper observes that Mr Fillmore's acting as President of the Louisville Convention is the first occasion of his appearance before the public this long while and he seized it to make an explanation of his relation to the Fugitive Slave Law. He declares that he knew the signing of that law would be his political death warrant but he signed it because it was made according to the constitution and his view of duty left no option. We hope this matter has not been troubling the old gentleman's conscience all these years. Two thirds of the people who read what he said will learn there for the first time who signed that law and will not regard it as of the least importance even then.

FRESHEST GLEANINGS

It is said that one hundred and seventy six American printing offices claim to have the printing press that Franklin used.

Next to New York Boston has received a larger share of foreign immigration since the summer of 1868 than any other landing place in the United States. The number credited to Boston in the exhibit—23 294—has probably never been exceeded in any previous year.

Gen Lee has three hundred and forty eight students at his college. He is about to establish three new departments—agriculture, commerce and applied chemistry—and a more complete development of the engineering schools now in operation also, the opening of farm and workshops.

It is estimated that the Paraguayan war has cost Brazil and her allies a total of £66 868 000 and 139,840 men. The calculation is based upon authentic sources. Three fourths of the sum falls upon Brazil. Her net gains are an efficient navy, an experience in warfare that may be serviceable to her hereafter, and the satisfaction which follows success.

M Liebreich has written to the French Academy about a new anæsthetic discovered by himself. He calls it chloral. It is to be administered by absorption rather than inhalation, which enables the doses to be measured with greater accuracy. The insensibility produced is said to be more complete than that caused by any other substance, the use of it is unattended by any danger, and a woman was lately kept under its influence for two hours during a protracted surgical operation.

The secret of President Johnson's pardons is coming out. Last year he released John H Sims, convicted in western New York for counterfeiting and sentenced to pay a fine of $4 000 and be imprisoned for a term of years. Sims procured a pardon through the efforts of a broker in that line, one M F. Styles, and a few days ago, at Rochester, in the Circuit Court, a case between these two worthies was tried, in which Styles produced a written contract with Sims that he (Styles) was to be paid $10,000 if he got Sims a pardon. The pardon was obtained, when Sims repudiated the contract, claiming that it was made while he was in duress and under compulsion. He gained the suit, and the pardon broker is out in the cold.

The Springfield (Mass.) Republican thinks it is very strange that the President, "with two Massachusetts men in the Cabinet," should have appointed November 18th as the National Thanksgiving Day. "The regular Thanksgiving Day," says the Republican, "from which everything dates in New England, and in many States outside its Puritan limits, is the last Thursday in November, and this will doubtless be the day designated this year by gubernatorial appointment. The consequence will be that no one will keep the President's Thanksgiving, and everybody will observe the Governor's." There is a great deal of territory outside of New England—a fact which the Republican seems to have not taken into its account.

The Explosion at the Indiana State Fair—An Important Statement

[From the Indianapolis Journal Oct 6.]

Last evening a reporter of the Journal visited the house of Mr John Reynolds on North Delaware street and had an interview with Mr John White, of Windfall, Tipton County, who is quite seriously wounded. The following is the substance of the statement made by him:

"I am a practical engineer, having been engaged in running mills for the past four years, and am running one now. I came up to the city for the purpose of purchasing a set of head blocks and went to the mill at the Fair grounds for the purpose of seeing them work, indeed I thought I might buy the ones being used there. I went around by the boiler which was making the steam to drive the mill and saw that they were carrying too much steam, the indicator showing from 110 to 130 pounds. I did not feel right then. The engine was being run by a large man and fired by a small one. The engineer tried the water, touching the lower gauge, which emitted blue steam but no water. The gauge opened above a little cup and I saw him feel in it with his little finger, but it had received no water from the gauge. He tried it again and then raised up on his tiptoes, and, seeing that it was empty, I saw him cringe in the face, showing indications of great fright. He then went to the pump and turned on the water, and as I saw him do that I started away as fast as I could walk, and had gotten opposite the end of the carriage when I turned my head to look back, and at that instant the boiler exploded, bruising my head, face and side and scalding me very badly. When I saw the engineer start to turn on the water my first impulse was to tell him not to do it, but I thought again that I might alarm the crowd needlessly, and I left as fast as I could walk, without saying anything. The engine was rotating very slowly or I could not have gotten away before the explosion occurred. If the engineer had not turned on the water I do not think the explosion would have occurred. I knew that the steam was superheated by its color."

Mr White is a perfectly reliable gentleman, a member of the Society of Friends, and his statement can be relied upon as correct in every particular. Our reporter informed the Coroner's Jury of the statement made by Mr White, but they did not deem it necessary to take his evidence.

This is undoubtedly the true explanation of the cause of the explosion. The engine had not entirely stopped; it was moving slowly, and it will be remembered that Mr Frink testified to hearing the gauge cock tried twice just before the explosion, and it is probable that it was done by the engineer, who then became frightened and by his action caused what he was trying to avert, an explosion.

DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN

DATES TO OCTOBER 28

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES

Woman's Suffrage Convention.

HARTFORD Conn. Oct 28.—A Woman Suffrage Convention assembled here to-day. There was a large attendance from various parts of the country and addresses were made by Mrs Susan B Anthony, Mrs Livermore and Henry Ward Beecher.

From Cuba

HAVANA Oct 27.—Serious frauds were lately [illegible] in the Government [illegible] and the Judge of the Supreme Court, Treasurer and [illegible] General are engaged personally investigating them.

The insurgent Cavadas has issued an order to his forces stating that it is possible the owners of plantations will soon begin to grind cane, and he expects his subordinates to burn the cane [illegible] as soon as the cane is dry.

Nashville Dispatch

NASHVILLE Oct 28.—A bill calling a State Convention was before the House to-day and elicited considerable debate. A proposition to amend so as to confer the privilege of voting for members upon all citizens of the United States twenty one years old was the point of contention, the original bill allowing those only to vote who are qualified under existing franchise laws. No decision had.

The Civil Service

NEW YORK Oct 28.—A paper was read by Geo. William Curtis before the Social Science Convention last night on the Civil Service. It was a strong argument against the present system as the most ignorant and destructive possible. It not only fosters political corruption but poisons the feelings of moral action and the nation itself and thus endangers its permanence and violates its fundamental principles instead of economizing.

At to-day's session Joseph D Potts, President of the Culpire Transportation Co., read a paper on transportation as a science. Papers were also read on life insurance by Sheppard Homans, on the administration of criminal justice in New York by Judge Barrett, and on the International Code by David Dudley Field.

NEW YORK Oct 27.—Chas Francis Adams Jr, read a carefully prepared paper on the election of the President of the United States, in which he advocated the election by the popular vote instead of Electors before the Social Science Convention to-day.

Report on the Crops

WASHINGTON Oct 28.—The Department of Agriculture has just issued a preliminary report on the condition of crops. It says the great agricultural lesson of the season inculcates the necessity of thorough cultivation. It is not an exaggeration to estimate the reduction from alternate drowning and scorching of fine crops to the extent of 200 million bushels. The general apprehension of a serious failure of the corn crop in the more Northern States has been materially modified by the sunny weather in September and the exemption from frosts to October. Early frosts in some portions of the Eastern and Middle States have checked the ripening and left frosted fields in an immature and damaged condition, but the injury is comparatively slight and limited in area. As a whole the crop has had an unusually favorable maturing season, resulting in a very gratifying amelioration of the prospects for the supply of this important staple. The aggregate will show that the yield is amply sufficient for all the wants of the country. Had the Spring wheat been equal to the Winter, the whole crop would be enormous. Throughout the South the yield is immensely large and the quality excellent. In Texas and Mississippi the improvement is somewhat less conspicuous than in the other States in that section. In Illinois counties reporting an increase equivalent to ten per cent and more are almost without exception.

Indiana grows a large portion of winter wheat this year. The area of cotton cultivated increased last spring fully 10 per cent. New England generally has a good crop. They are usually good in the West with the exception of Minnesota. The product of sweet potatoes is manifestly increased.

Treasury Affairs

WASHINGTON, Oct [illegible].—Treasurer Spinner's annual report shows the receipts from internal revenue for six months ending September 30th to be $108 447 424, being an increase of nearly two and a half millions over the same period of the previous year, and the expenditures were three quarters of a million less than last year.

More about the Steamboat Disaster

ST LOUIS, Oct. 28.—George Fulton, chief engineer of the Stonewall, has arrived and gives some further particulars of the disaster. Sixteen persons were saved by clinging to the stage plank and six more swam ashore. There were in all between 250 and 260 souls on board, of whose positive safety there is no certainty. One man was brought ashore, but died soon. The only officers of the boat known to be saved are George W Fulton, chief engineer, Edward Fulkerson, pilot, and E P Watson, carpenter. Three ladies were aboard, only one of whom was saved. Captain Scott was last seen floating on a spar. Men on shore rode down the stream in hopes of finding him, but he was not to be found. The scene aboard was heart rending in the extreme. The flames spread with wonderful rapidity under action of strong wind. Passengers in wild terror crowded on the fore as tle until they were forced overboard [illegible] and drowned each other in desperate struggles to free themselves. Others would jump into the water, whirl round in the strong current for a moment and then disappear. Mr Fulton jumped overboard and attempted to swim ashore, but coming in contact with a number of mules swam to and climbed on the wheel of the boat. While there the steam pipe burst and the wheel revolved three times, but he clung to it and was finally taken ashore in a skiff. Charles Williams, a deck hand, says he tried to smother the fire when he first discovered it with blankets, but the wind blew so hard that he failed in his efforts. Hose was also brought to play on the fire, but the crowd of frenzied passengers rushed with such irresistible force on the men having it in force on the men having it in charge that they were obliged to give it up. Williams then threw overboard all of the hay and getting upon it drifted to the stern of the boat, where he encountered the boat's yawl containing six men and a woman. He was taken in, but having no oars could not stem the current. Williams and the woman were put ashore and the remaining men made another attempt to reach the steamer by using the seats of the yawl for paddles, but the current was so strong that they were carried down stream and seen no more. Williams thinks not more than thirty persons were saved, but it is hoped that more of them reached the shore.

Accident of the Union Pacific Railroad

CHICAGO Oct 29.—An Omaha special says that a western bound passenger train on the Union Pacific Railroad ran off the track yesterday near Evanstown station. An emigrant train loaded with Mormons ran into the rear car, disregarding the signal which had been properly placed to stop it. Three Mormons were killed and five wounded. A passenger named John Lutin, whose family was aboard the train, was killed instantly. Miss Percy, a young lady passenger, was seriously cut on the head. The entire blame rests on the engineer and conductor, who were discharged.

[illegible] UPON BUSINESS —In conversing with business [illegible] we hear frequent complaints about various matters which act as checks upon the business of the city and [illegible]. Among these are high rates of interest high [illegible] for business and dwelling houses high prices of [illegible] both into and out of the city by land [illegible] high rates of insurance, etc Most of these [illegible] are old and oft-repeated tales We find how [illegible] more than casual complaints concerning the [illegible] While we have a very efficient fire [illegible] and the city always has been [illegible] from heavy losses by fire the insur[illegible] charge, if we are rightly informed high[illegible] than in any like city on the Pacific coast for [illegible] The rates are such, except for occupants of [illegible] as to amount to almost an inhibition [illegible] Merchants complain that they are [illegible] to pay as much for first class insurance as is [illegible] elsewhere for second class And further [illegible] doing business here practically evade [illegible] the State requiring a security deposit of $50 [illegible] U S. bonds which are not taxable—and [illegible] by depositing in bank and drawing out again [illegible] to understand how this is done, but [illegible] complaint as we hear it. It was doubtless [illegible] the Legislature in passing the law re[illegible] of $50,000, not only to provide some [illegible] and the policy holders but to reach [illegible] by way of taxation so that insur[illegible] doing business in this State, and draw[illegible] it, should help bear the burdens of the [illegible] required being made in U S bonds, [illegible] possibility and hence we have among us [illegible] doing a profitable business and paying [illegible] nothing for the privilege We hear the [illegible] in several quarters that the law should [illegible] to equalize some of these matters.

Legal Tender notes at San Francisco [illegible] At Portland [illegible]

There is nothing new to note in the local money market. The demand for money is just strong enough to keep the rates of interest [illegible] per cent on short loans. Real estate [illegible] considerable in number and [illegible] to visibly affect the market. Bills [illegible] and settlements are considerably [illegible] amounts of goods purchased rendering the money market a little more [illegible] stringent.

In produce there is less than the usual activity at this season of the year. Very little of the new crop of grain has yet arrived, nor can it be moved till the fall rains set in. Navigation, as far as the carrying business is concerned, almost literally suspended. Vast quantities of wheat however, are being stored along the banks of the river ready to come down, upon the first rise of water. Prices of both wheat and flour remain unchanged, and there seem to be no indications anywhere of such a demand as will appreciate figures here. Exports of late have been quite limited, and the supplies on hand are scarcely more than sufficient to supply the local trade. The only demand worthy of note is at San Francisco—for superfine grades for export to China. This is, however, only temporary and cannot [illegible] affect this market.

We are permitted to make the following extracts from the correspondence of a firm of this city who shipped a lot of wheat per Helen Angier to Liverpool.

"Liverpool, 25th September.—We last addressed you on the 18th inst., when we advised you of the arrival of the Helen Angier. Owing to the recent large arrivals of vessels, there has been considerable delay in their discharge, and the Helen Angier has not yet commenced to land her cargo. An immense fleet of grain laden vessels from the Mediterranean has arrived lately, and this has caused a considerable decline in the value of wheat. Our market is extremely dull and it is very difficult to effect sales.

"Liverpool, 2d October.—The Helen Angier has not yet completed her discharge. * * * Although our corn market is so dull, there does not appear to be any change in the opinion as to the deficiency of the wheat crop, but the arrivals from America and from the Mediterranean have been so large that they have weighed seriously on the market."

The Trade Circular of Oct. 1st, gives a similar account of the grain market—depressed in consequence of large foreign arrivals, and a general disappointment of expectations entertained during the preceding months of August and September.

In the Herald of October 28th we find a letter from Mr. A. J. Dufur, of this city, written at Philadelphia, September 27th, from which we take the following extract:

Oregon [illegible] and especially our wheat, excite the [illegible] interest wherever we exhibit them. At the grain and seed store of D. Landreth & Co., where a number of gentlemen examined and compared our wheat with that [illegible] in this section of country, we told them that by deep plowing and a good system of cultivation, the land in Oregon would frequently produce from forty to sixty bushels of such wheat as that to the acre, and that the superiority of most of our fruit and vegetables is equal to our wheat. The suggestion was at once made that if Oregon wanted immigration, all she had to do was to furnish an agent with samples of her produce here at some place in the city where the people and newspaper reporters could see and examine them for themselves. "Why," says one of the gentlemen, "the State of Kansas made an appropriation and sent her agents to our Pomological Exhibition with some of the finest specimens of fruit ever exhibited in that part of the United States, and if Oregon would take the same course every acre of arable land susceptible of settlement in your State would be occupied in five years. Why don't your people wake up to their own interests and send out their agents?" Well, Mr. Editor, perhaps you can answer that [illegible]

We also [illegible] short call at the office of Jay Cooke, where we found Mr. Roberts, one of the gentlemen who accompanied the Northern Pacific Railroad party to our coast [illegible] Mr. Roberts is busily engaged in making a report of the practicability of the route, and, with Mr. Cooke, manifested a desire to obtain specimens of wheat [illegible] table information relative to the resources of your State. As Mr. Cooke took my hand at parting, he said, "Tell your people when you get home, that one of these days I'll charter a train of cars and take an excursion over the Northern Pacific Railroad, and make a visit to Oregon."

Our local trade has fallen off somewhat in the aggregate within the last week, though we note a fair business done in [illegible] goods and [illegible] has been unusually dull.

[illegible] there might be something doing in the [illegible] Oregon and [illegible] the cost of [illegible] were reduced so as to allow [illegible]

NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!

W. E. COOPER

HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive

Carriage Factory,

Corner of Second and Morrison Streets

He respectfully refers to the following

CARD.

Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling invented by H R Hoag, we feel pleasure in [illegible] the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts [illegible] to all vehicles that [illegible]

It fastens without bolt [illegible] screw [illegible] and rattles [illegible] Gutta Percha [illegible] so that the shafts [illegible] detached in an instant [illegible]

It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use and with small expense. We have no [illegible] in using this new invention [illegible] superior to the Brewster Patent heretofore considered the best in use.
